

U. S. TO IMPROVE USE OF POOR LANDS IN STATE

Propose to Retire Scattered Submarginal Farms from Cultivation

Madison, Wis., March 22—(U.P.)—Immediate acceptance by the federal emergency relief administration of options on 1,300 acres in forest, Langlade and Oconto counties to demonstrate improved use of poor lands was announced here today.

The announcement came from Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, through the Wisconsin emergency relief administration.

Retire Some Land
The project has been prepared by the land policy section of the federal agricultural adjustment administration as one of a series of demonstrations in more economic use of submarginal land. It is proposed to retire scattered submarginal farms from cultivation and transfer impoverished families living there to better locations with the intention of localizing county finances more economically. Farm lands withdrawn from agricultural use will be devoted largely to forestry.

Resettlement of the families living there will be directed by Arlie Mucks of the state relief administration. A. W. Briggs, administrator, explained. Plans for this are underway with a project office at Grandon under direction of A. R. Jacobson, and rehabilitation committees organized in all counties involved. All settlers on land acquired by the government are eligible for resettlement.

Resettlement Farms
Those with sufficient assets will be advised on how to get commercial credit from private agencies, while others will be offered assistance from the rural rehabilitation corporation, headed by Mucks. Suitable resettlement farms and homes will be purchased or built from which those wishing to transfer may make a selection. They will be allowed to pay off cost of such new locations over a long period on basis of prices established by federal land bank appraisers. Some of the inhabitants may be

Wayland Alumni To Attend Banquet

Chicago, March 22—(U.P.)—Chicago alumni of Wayland academy of Beaver Dam, Wis., reported to be the oldest co-educational school in the United States, will attend a memorial banquet tonight to pay respects to the memory of the late Dr. E. P. Brown, principal of the academy for 37 years.

More than 200 are expected to attend the dinner, according to Spencer Walter Lincoln, president of the Chicago alumni group. Honored guests include Principal Stanley C. Ross, who succeeded Dr. Brown, and Dr. Abraham LeGrande of Milwaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin Baptist state convention.

ASSEMBLY VOTES TO BAR SALES OF FIREWORKS IN STATE

Madison, Wis., March 22—(U.P.)—With a prolonged display of legislative pyrotechnics, the Wisconsin assembly Thursday voted against fireworks.

For two hours the legislators sent up showers of argument for and against a bill to prohibit the sale of all fireworks in Wisconsin except for public displays.

They adopted an amendment to make the bill effective after Dec. 1, 1935, and then engrossed it 49 to 44. Opponents branded it "another prohibition law."

Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimmons, Jr., Democrat, Fond du Lac, charged that approval of the bill was the same as saying to dealers "thou shalt not sell," and to children "thou shalt not celebrate."

Fitzsimmons failed to have the bill amended to bar only chain stores from selling fireworks after the bill's author, Assemblyman Allen J. Busby, Progressive, Milwaukee, branded the amendment as "an attempt to kill the bill by ridicule."

offered part time employment in forestry. The men will offer them advice on acquisition, and resettlement of farms or homes, soils, markets and management.

The project is based on a background of several years of pioneering study by the University of Wisconsin. It was estimated that the net cost per isolated settler to the counties was $400 per year. It also was shown that 85.5 per cent of the farm families in the submarginal areas were indigent.

Urges State-Owned "Public Improvement Authority" to Operate Any Works Projects

Madison, Wis., March 22—(U.P.)—Productive employment of Wisconsin's jobless by a state-owned "public improvement authority" was proposed to the legislature today by Assemblyman Herman Wegner, Socialist, Milwaukee.

He introduced a bill in the assembly to create a corporation to operate any work project for unemployed, "whether eligible for a relief or not," to engage in any business to furnish this work, and empowered to issue bonds to finance its projects.

Wegner's bill stated that support of the state's 600,000 unemployed "tends to make this state dependent upon the federal government for financial assistance, resulting in a tendency to barter away the rights, immunities, and privileges of the state."

Organization of "works for the jobless to create their necessities" was declared by the bill to be "public uses and purposes on which public money may be spent and private property acquired."

The state's unemployed "are not only willing but anxious to work and are potential wealth creators, provided their willingness, and ability to work is organized to produce the necessities required and now being furnished by the state."

The proposed corporation would be governed by a five member board, serving five year terms, who would be paid up to 10 per cent of the net amount accumulated "for the benefit of the public in any session of their annual convention today."

Mandor Matson, Racine architect, one of the speakers at a banquet last night, voiced approval of municipal low cost housing and slum clearance projects.

WOMAN TOSSES $100 BILLS OUT OF MOVING TRAIN

Curiosity Seekers Join Police in Search of Money Along Right-of-Way

Battle Creek, Mich., March 22—(U.P.)—Police and railroad officials received the enthusiastic but unwelcome aid of farmers and curiosity seekers Thursday in a hunt for $100 bills.

As much as $10,000 might have been thrown from the train yesterday by Mrs. Isabel May McElie, before train workers found her. She attempted to throw away another $173,000 while they were preparing to take her to a hospital from the train on which she was bound to Montreal from Chicago, officers said.

Police Summoned
Search was started along the railroad route after the woman remarked while being taken to an ambulance, "You cannot get my money—I've thrown it all away."

Then she threw an envelope on the depot platform. It was found to contain the $173,000 in currency. Last night a woman arrived here and told police she was Mrs. McElie's mother. She said she was from Elgin, Ill. Officers did not learn her name.

Immediately she took Mrs. McElie from Lela Post Montgomery hospital to a hotel after physicians said she was well enough to leave. Meanwhile, police were holding the money and a box of jewels valued at $500,000, pending further information in the case. Grand Trunk officials are checking serial numbers of the currency which is all in bills of large denominations, including a number of $10,000 notes.

Late yesterday Mrs. McElie was identified as the wife of Simon McElie, publisher of a Hammond, Ind., newspaper. Last September she filed suit in federal court asking for a property settlement.

Papers in the woman's possession indicate that she recently made huge sales of stocks and bonds through the Fifth Avenue bank, New York, police reported.

Police were at a loss to explain why Mrs. McElie had been placed on the train at Chicago by an unidentified man. Her ticket called for passage to Montreal. Shortly after the train pulled out Mrs. McElie began making remarks about carrying a great deal of money, the crowd gathered and began tossing bills in all directions.

For Dirtying Porch
Fond du Lac, Wis., March 22—(U.P.)—Tom was in jail today because he tracked up a freshly scrubbed porch. An irate housewife called the police station yesterday and asked:

"Do you arrest cats?"
An officer said "Yes."
"Well come out and arrest this one."

Police are holding Tom for his owner.

Charges Employes
Of Large Gas Stations
Urged to Defeat Bill
Madison, Wis., March 22—(U.P.)—Employes of large oil firms' stations have been circulated to help defeat a bill by Assemblyman Clarence C. Kretlow, Democrat, Milwaukee, for separation of retail and whole-sale gasoline businesses, an assembly committee was told yesterday.

The charge was made by Louis Faber, president of the Milwaukee unit of the Retail Gasoline Dealers and Service Association of Wisconsin.

Employes were warned that they would lose their jobs if the Kretlow bill became law, Faber asserted. They were urged to send messages to the legislature against the bill and "better still, go to some state politician in your town," he said.

A delegation of gasoline retailers urged passage of the bill, claiming it would rescue them from unfair competition by big companies.
