Owners Of Property In Central Part Of State To Fight Leasing Of Their Land

Milwaukee.-(/P)-Ambrose Coller, ecedah, president of the Property owners' Protective association, today said his organization was considering entering federal court with its fight against plans of the conservation commission to form a game preserve in Juneau, Jackson and Wood county marsh lands. Since the proposed 300,000 acre refuge is a federal project, Circuit Judge E. W. Crosby, Neillsville, last week refused to accept jurisdiction. The opponents of the refuge seek to prevent the state from leasing Parts Of State the land to the government which is buying small tracts from private owners.
