

🕙 http://www.wisconsinstories.org/worldwar2/ownwords/🛇 📶 🗨 Google

brian's bookmarks ▼ WPT home Apple Amazon Yahoo! eBay

News ▼

WHS site

WPT site

WDVA site

support history

feedback

WISCONSIN STORIES

BEHIND THE LENS THE PROJECTS TELL US YOUR STORIES ARCHIVES SITE MAP

WWII home In their own words

Letters

More stories

Oral histories

The program Learn more Special features Funder recognition

in their own words/letters

Roy Bergengren Jr. wrote many thoughtful letters during the war. In this letter near the war's end, he reflects on lessons learned. Of his impressions of the war, Bergengren notes, "Obvious though they may be, they are none-the-less vivid."

Wisconsin Historical Society, Donald Wells, Anderson Papers, 1890-1972.

Dear Don,

Having entered Germany a while ago, I feel something like the coast-to-coast marathon runner must as he crosses the New York State line.

In 28 months, I've journeyed through 11 countries to get here. It was a rather roundabout route, but there's never been any doubt about where we were headed. I hope I shall travel right to Berlin — and then home.

So far, it has been an interesting, if unpleasant experience. I could certainly have done nicely without it; but since it has been necessary, I'm glad to be one of those taking a share in it. There have been a few outstanding impressions. Obvious though Duane Alexander

Roy F. Bergengren, Jr. Portrait of a soldier. Photo loaned for copying by Rosemary Bergengren, Daytona Beach, FL, June 1992.

Roy Bergengren, Jr.

Richard I. Bong

Tom Bosclair

Vivian Croake

Vivian Croake (2)

Fred Draeger

Paul Fergot

Thurman Fox

John Jenkins

John Warren

Kenneth Worthing

Stewart C. Yeo